GV2 8D Beijing & Shanghai trip

CD-3

TianAnMen Square – Literally meaning the ‘Gate of Heavenly Peace’ Square, this is the largest city square in the world. It was here that MaoZeDong declared the founding of the Peoples’ Republic of China. Many other events took place here since the Qing Dynasty. Most notably and recently was the mass protest that resulted in killings by government forces in 1989.

Forbidden City – This was the Imperial Palace for the Ming and Qing dynasties and was the largest palace in the world. It exemplifies traditional Chinese palatial architecture. There are about 980 surviving buildings now and today it houses the Palace Museum.

Great Wall – Known as 10,000 li long wall (1 li has been standardized to be 500 metres), this very long wall was built, rebuilt and strengthened over many times during the olden days for the purpose of preventing incursions by invading enemies. We will visit the JuYong Pass of this wall. This part is important as it protects Beijing during ancient times.

Summer Palace – A UNESCO Heritage Site, it was declared to be ‘a masterpiece of Chinese landscape garden design’. The Qing Emperor QianLong built this beautiful garden of his mother for her 60th birthday. It was converted by the Empress Dowager CiXi to be her summer refuge later.
